Objections to the Specification

The specification is objected to as failing to provide proper antecedent basis for the claimed subject matter. See 37 CFR 1.75(d)(1) and MPEP § 608.01(o). The specification refers to element 15 as the "bracket base" and element 14 as a "pad." There doesn't appear to be any basis for the new limitation in independent claims 1 and 16 that the base is "flexible." It appears as though applicant is referring in the currently amended claims to the disclosed "pad" as making up at least part of the claimed "base." If this is the case, then the specification should be amended to be consistent with the claims.

Rejections based on 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1, 2, 7, 8, 12, 13, 15-19, 21 and 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In regard to independent claims 1 and 16, the apparent referencing of the disclosed "pad" in the claims as a part of the "base" is confusing.

Claims 7 and 8 are dependent on canceled claim 4.

Rejections based on Prior Art

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 24, 27, and 35 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Miller et al (US 4,068,379).

Miller et al disclose that it is known in the prior art to provide orthodontic brackets with a mesh screen spot welded to the base of the bracket (column 1, line 55-57). Miller et al further disclose that the number of spot welds between the bracket and the mesh determine the flexibility of the mesh pad and that it is known to provide only a few spot welds which results in increased flexibility (see column 2, lines 8-14). In regard to claim 24, the mesh of the prior art discussed by Miller et al meets the bonding structure limitation, the body of the bracket meets the external surface limitation and the limited spot welding connection between bracket and the mesh meets the resilient interface limitation.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 34 and 36 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Miller et al (US 4,068,379).

Miller et al are unclear as to the explicit structure of the bracket with spot welded mesh discussed in the prior art at column 1, line 55 – column 2, line 15. However, in regard to claim 34, one of ordinary skill in the art would have found the use of a bracket with tapered smooth edges around the base so as to provide more comfort to the user obvious. In regard to claim 36 applicant admits at paragraph [0068] that the claimed adhesive properties are present in conventional adhesives; the use of such conventional adhesives with the prior art disclosed by Miller et al would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art as a matter of routine.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1, 2, 7, 8, 12, 13, 15-19, 21 and 22 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the indefiniteness rejection above.

Response to Applicants Remarks

The examiner is in general agreement with applicant's remarks, however, with regard to claim 24, the examiner notes that the claim is of such breadth that it encompasses the structure disclosed by Miller et al as set forth above.

Action Made Final

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
